

The children of Jonathan "Papa Joe" DuBose Sr. decided to honor our father's legacy in quartet music. It started with an interview documented at Fairfield University WVOF 88.5 FM campus in August. On Sunday, September 13, 2009 they gathered together for a celebration with singing and love gifts shared to say "thank you" for investing and training us up in music and ministry. The photos shown in the publication mentioned is "legacy keepsake". The content of this publishing includes some pertinent information on the individuals and institutions that played a role in causing good success in the performance arts and public stage appearances.

From that moment moving forward in 2015 and beyond. Divine event after event continues to unfold (being at the right place at the right times making divinely order steps) in exceeding, abundantly, far above what we can ask or think developments. We are singing! We are celebrating! And we have come into full awareness that our roots in music education are far greater than anything ever imagined. And for this reason the creation and history of our foundation as musicians, artists and media producers in a publication entitled - 70 and Beyond: - The DuBose Legacy eBook came into to BEING!

Honoring Jonathan DuBose Sr on his 75th Birthday

70 and Beyond Video & Audio Blog

Interview which sparked authors PASSION

Visit our store to download from

Barnes & Noble | Amazon | Kobo | Scribd |